Meet our Award-Winning Faculty Members:

Looking for a successful transition to university?
Our supportive community can help you with that.

Anelle Djoï (She/Her)
Business Economics

"As an international student, moving so far away was one of the toughest things I've done; but at Glendon, I found a strong, family-like community. Integration was so easy and whether it is friends, faculty members or staff, there is always someone to help you out. I was also given the opportunity to develop my leadership skills and even get a work-study position. I am very grateful for these opportunities!"

Nakamissa Sidibé (She/Her)

Alumna from Economics 2022
Certificate in Law and Social Thought Outstanding Contribution Award

"At Glendon, I found a community that works for the common good and that leaves none of its members behind. I've discovered this through my interactions with students, professors and members of the administration. Interactions that were facilitated by the small size of the campus and the classrooms."

Moboluwajidide Joseph (He/Him)

Alumnus from Communications 2021
Robert Everett Exceptional Leadership in Student Governance Award Alumni Golden GRADitude Award

"One of the reasons I wanted to go to university was to discover myself and figure out who I was, what my values and principles were and how these coincided with my goals and ambitions. Glendon created space for me to do that." As the previous national executive representative for the Canadian Federation of Students' Black Caucus, Moboluwajidide has been a key voice in student-led and centered responses to anti-black racism framework development processes and lobbying efforts.

Stephen Teong (He/Him)
Psychology

"I remember first coming into orientation, I was pretty scared as I was an anglophone who didn't really know anyone. I got to experience Glendon's immersive multilingual environment where people help each other without judgement whether that is in the hallways, in clubs or at the student union. I quickly got comfortable in the language classes that I took and am proud to have added these skills to my CV."

Naima Sood (She/Her)
Communications

"I picked Glendon Campus, as I liked the campus setting. I like the location that it's in the heart of Toronto. Also the fact that it's a bilingual campus, which allowed me to practice my French."

Learn by doing!

Experiential Education is the application of what you learn in the classroom to a real-life situation. Throughout your studies you'll develop and master new skills that will continuously improve as you continue your journey through life. Employers look at your degree, but they also look at the skills you have gained throughout your program.

Get a work placement opportunity, no matter your program

Students can complete a work placement in a new industry or workplace of interest, regardless of their program of study, while gaining credits towards their degree requirements.

FIRST YEAR EXAMPLE
 Debate with classmates over case studies covering current issues like the human resources simulation in Business Economics

SECOND YEAR EXAMPLE
 Participate in the planning and facilitation of a professional conference or symposium like the Annual International Studies symposium

THIRD YEAR EXAMPLE
 Complete a work placement course to gain professional experience in your discipline like an internship in France with an international focus as part of the Dual Degree

FOURTH YEAR EXAMPLE
 Join a team of students from across York University to help a community partner solve a problem through the C4 capstone course like the AI4GOOD website showcasing the intersection of Artificial Intelligence and ethics

In Toronto or abroad, the choice is yours

We have over 100 active partners for work placements in Toronto and around the world, including Amnesty International, the Hockey Hall of Fame, the Ontario Public Service and Consulate General of France in Toronto and Los Angeles.

Our students have completed placements in Quebec, Los Angeles, New York, France, Morocco, Ghana, Peru, Vietnam, Spain and Egypt, just to name a few.

Earn credits towards your degree

All Glendon work placements guarantee course credit upon completion and these typically represent a half or full year course.

Work placement and internship courses require between 80 to 240 hours so that you have the flexibility to take other courses at the same time.

Admitted? Congrats! Here are your next steps:

Take a moment to celebrate, but don't forget these next steps.

1. ACCEPT YOUR OFFER

After you receive your offer of admission, you must accept it officially. If you applied to Glendon through OUAC, log in there to accept your offer. If you applied directly on the York website, log in to your MyFile portal to confirm your acceptance and book your enrolment appointment. Remember: the deadline to respond is on your admission offer letter.

2. APPLY FOR YOUR STUDY PERMIT

As an international student, you must obtain a study permit to legally enter and remain in Canada during your time at Glendon. Need help? No problem! York International hosts a series of workshops and drop-in sessions to help you get started and navigate the process.

3. APPLY FOR RESIDENCE

Fully immerse yourself in the on-campus experience by staying in one of Glendon's two student residences. They offer you the most convenient, supportive, and fun home away from home. Submit your residence application through MyFile before the June 1st deadline to secure your accommodations!

Reasons to Choose Toronto

Canada's largest city & economic engine

Being the fourth largest city in North America, Toronto places you at the centre of a lively hub buzzing with business, sports, and culture.

A truly global city

At the heart of Toronto's identity is a city where the world meets. Cited as the most multicultural city in the world, anyone can come here and feel at home.

Safety & security – #1 Safest in North America (The Economist, 2021)

Despite its size, Toronto is an incredibly safe city where you will be free to explore the many unique neighbourhoods that make it a wonderful place to study and live.

A major international flight hub with some of Canada's warmest weather conditions.
