

EARN YORK CREDITS WHILE EXPLORING COSTA RICA THIS SUMMER 2019

GL/SP/COMS 4608 3.0 Narratives in/of Costa Rica Individuals, communities and their voices

Instructor: Alejandro Zamora, PhD.

As part of the Summer Abroad Program at York's Eco-Campus in Costa Rica, this course centres on the nature and function of narratives as they relate to the construction of subjects, communities and nations. Students analyze local narrative environments (including fiction and non-fiction), community narratives and life stories. Students are also given the option of creating their own narrative based on their experience in Costa Rica, while reflecting on the act of telling/writing as an act of (self) knowledge production and its potential for building archives of memory, articulating communities and fostering empathy.

The course is taught in English. Students majoring in Spanish are required to present course work in Spanish to receive major credits.

The course will run from April 29th to May 8th

Students can also take other courses in Costa Rica from York's Summer
Abroad Program

Funding is available for York Students through York International
